

Mr Abdul Senior Teacher

I firmly believe that the purpose of education should extend beyond merely preparing students for economic productivity. Education should also focus on developing a child to become valuable and engaged members of society. And this can only be done through everyone's concerted effort.

As a teacher leader, I believe that every achievement is a shared accomplishment, reflecting the collective effort, dedication, and contributions of the whole team.

I strive to create opportunities for students to develop holistically so that they can have the will and the skills to improve themselves and make meaningful contributions to society.

Prime Minister Lawrence Wong's vision of a refreshed Singapore, where we are "a people who are more inclusive, gracious, and big-hearted," resonates deeply with me. As an educator, I am committed to equipping my students with the skills, dispositions, and values necessary for them to actively build and participate in their communities.
